In the Matter of the Petition of:

    ERW ENTERPRISES, INC.

for an Award of Costs Pursuant to Article 41, § 3030 of the Tax Law for the Period ended December 3, 2012.

Petitioner did not file a brief in support of the exception. The Division of Taxation filed a letter brief in opposition. Petitioner filed a letter brief in reply. Oral argument was not requested. The six-month period for the issuance of this decision began on July 10, 2020, the date that petitioner’s reply letter brief was received.

After reviewing the entire record in this matter, the Tax Appeals Tribunal renders the following decision.

ISSUE

Whether petitioner is entitled to an award of costs pursuant to Tax Law § 3030.

FINDINGS OF FACT

We find the facts as determined by the Administrative Law Judge in the March 26, 2020 order. Findings of fact 1 through 59 below are those set forth in this Tribunal’s decision in Matter of ERW Enterprises, Inc. (Tax Appeals Tribunal, May 29, 2019). Findings of fact 60 through 67 below are additional facts found by the Administrative Law Judge in the March 26, 2020 order. We have also made an additional finding of fact, numbered 68 below.

1. On December 14, 2014, the Division issued to petitioner, ERW Enterprises, Inc., (ERW Enterprises) a notice of determination (L-042291772). On December 19, 2014, the Division issued to Eric R. White d/b/a ERW Wholesale (ERW Wholesale), a notice of determination (L-042301388). Each notice of determination assessed a penalty in the amount of $1,259,250.00 pursuant to article 20 of the Tax Law. The computation section of the notices states that:

“[o]n 12/03/12, you were found to be in possession and/or control of unstamped or unlawfully stamped cigarettes, and/or untaxed tobacco products.

Therefore, penalty is imposed under Article 20 of the New York State Tax Law.”

2. ERW Enterprises was incorporated September 25, 2008 and is registered to conduct business in the State of New York. It is solely owned by Eric R. White and is a construction company engaged in heavy site work, including utilities installation, commercial paving, and the like. ERW Enterprises mainly employs heavy equipment operators. It also employs carpenters and electricians. ERW Enterprises has never been directly engaged in the business of tobacco trading, including the tobacco wholesale business conducted by ERW Wholesale. ERW Enterprises’ only apparent connection to the matter at issue in this proceeding, as described hereinafter, comes from the undisputed fact that the vehicle used to transport certain unstamped cigarettes, though individually owned by Eric R. White, was registered to ERW Enterprises (see finding of fact 15).

3. ERW Wholesale, by contrast, operates a tobacco wholesale business. ERW Wholesale commenced doing business in 2012 and is solely owned by Eric R. White. Mr. White is a member of the Seneca Nation of Indians. The Seneca Nation of Indians is recognized by the United States Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA). Mr. White holds a business license issued by the Seneca Nation of Indians that permits him to operate as a tobacco wholesaler under the name ERW Wholesale. Under this business license, Mr. White is entitled to warehouse tobacco products, and to deliver tobacco products to Native American vendors. ERW Wholesale’s warehouse, equipment and associated facilities are located on the Cattaraugus Reservation of the Seneca Nation of Indians, in the far Western part of New York State.

4. ERW Wholesale is solely regulated by the Seneca Nation of Indians. All of ERW Wholesale’s customers are Native Americans, including tribes and Native American individuals operating businesses (retail locations) that sell tobacco products, including cigarettes, on Native American territories. ERW Wholesale deals solely in Native American manufactured tobacco products including, as here relevant, cigarettes, and does not deal in “premium” cigarette brands (i.e., cigarettes, such as Marlboro, Winston, Newport, and other well-known brands, manufactured and sold by non-Native American entities). ERW Wholesale is not a New York State licensed stamping agent or wholesaler.

5. In addition to the construction and tobacco wholesale businesses described above, Eric R. White has multiple additional businesses, including a NAPA auto and truck parts retail store, all located on the Cattaraugus Reservation. Dwayne Clark is employed by Mr. White, and his multiple businesses, as controller or operations manager. With respect to ERW Wholesale, Mr. Clark is the operations manager, which position entails handling the day-to-day operations of the company. Mr. Clark’s duties include processing orders, overseeing orders being processed, overseeing trucks being loaded, and overseeing employees. Mr. Clark was ERW Wholesale’s operations manager on December 1, 2012, as well as before and after that date.
6. On or about November 30, 2012, ERW Wholesale received, from Oien’Kwa Trading, an order for the purchase of 9,000 cartons (150 cases) of assorted types of cigarettes. This order was entered into ERW Wholesale’s computer system on the next day, Saturday, December 1, 2012. Subsequent to purchasing the cigarettes from ERW Wholesale, Oien’Kwa Trading resold the cigarettes to Saihwahenteh. ERW Wholesale agreed to perform a “drop shipment” of the cigarettes to Saihwahenteh, meaning that it agreed to transport the cigarettes from the Cattaraugus Reservation to the Ganienkeh territory, as a transporter for Oien’Kwa Trading. The total purchase price for the 9,000 cartons of cigarettes that ERW Wholesale sold to Oien’Kwa Trading was $164,250.00. The total shipping or delivery fee for the drop shipment of the cigarettes from the Cattaraugus Reservation to the Ganienkeh territory was $2,250.00, i.e., $.25 per carton (see findings of fact 23 through 25). According to Mr. Clark, ERW Wholesale provides drop shipment services in the course of its business, and the delivery fees imposed by ERW Wholesale for drop shipments vary based upon the distance the cigarettes are transported.

7. John Kane, a member of the Mohawk Nation of Indians, provided testimony in a related case (Matter of Shawn E. Snyder, DTA No. 825785 [NYS Div. Tax App. June 22, 2017]). The transcripts, together with much of the documentary evidence from that proceeding, have been included as part of the record in this proceeding by agreement of the parties. In addition, official notice of the record of the proceedings in Matter of Shawn E. Snyder, is taken pursuant to State Administrative Procedure Act (SAPA) § 306 (4). Pursuant to SAPA § 306 (4) official notice can be taken of all facts of which judicial notice could be taken. Since a court may take judicial notice of its own records (Matter of Ordway, 196 NY 95 [1909]), the Division of Tax Appeals may take official notice of its record of proceedings (see Bracken v Axelrod, 93 AD2d 913 [3d Dept 1983]). Mr. Kane was qualified without objection as an expert on Indian history, in general, and on the existence and history of the Ganienkeh territory, in particular.

8. Mr. Kane explained that in July 1977, New York State created, and has since then utilized, a trust named the Turtle Island Trust, as a vehicle to establish an enclave for a band of Mohawk Indians (the Warrior Society of Mohawks) who had previously occupied an abandoned Girl Scout camp at Big Moose, located near Old Forge, New York. Mr. Kane confirmed that a formal transaction was performed by New York State to create the Turtle Island Trust and, through that trust, to provide for the Mohawk peoples’ use of the land, generically the Miner Lake area, near Altona, New York, where the Ganienkeh territory is located.

9. The inhabitants of the Ganienkeh territory, a majority of whom are Mohawk, consider the territory sovereign land. Its governance, described by Mr. Kane as the Way of the Longhouse, is in accord with that practiced on other Native American territories. In addition to homes, Ganienkeh includes a bingo hall with electronic gaming devices, smoke shop, gas station, sawmill, and other businesses, as well as a school and a health clinic.

10. Mr. Kane confirmed that the Mohawk people have always considered the Ganienkeh territory to be their land; the other Native American nations fully recognize the Ganienkeh territory as a sovereign territory; and there is little, if any, interaction between the Ganienkeh territory and the State of New York. In this regard, New York State has a history of not collecting: (a) taxes from income earned by the bingo and electronic gaming hall, smoke shop, and gasoline station located on the Ganienkeh territory; and (b) real estate taxes from those who own real property located on the Ganienkeh territory. There is a tribal police force at Ganienkeh, and testimony at hearing confirmed that the New York State Police (State Police) do not generally enforce laws on the Ganienkeh territory.

11. Mr. Kane noted that the inhabitants of Ganienkeh do not receive any state or federal funds. He further explained that the tobacco industry, including the manufacturing and distribution of cigarettes, has become an important part of the Native American economy.

12. The record includes the Turtle Island Trust Agreement (Trust Agreement), dated July 25, 1977.\(^2\) Pursuant to its Article III, the trust shall exist and shall be administered and operated exclusively for charitable, religious and educational purposes. Specifically, the purpose of the trust is to encourage and to provide a source of financial support for:

(A) the preservation of the traditional culture, heritage, history, religion, language and arts of the Indian Nations of North America;

(B) the education of Indians and other members of the public in the traditional culture, heritage, history, religion, language and arts of the Indian Nations of North America;

(C) the promotion of racial and cultural harmony and understanding between members of the North American Indian Nations and citizens of the United States;

(D) the relief of poverty among members of the North American Indian Nations.```

13. The record also includes a lease executed on September 28, 1977, between the People of the State of New York, acting by and through the Commissioner of Environmental Conservation (lessor) and the Turtle Island Trust (lessee). Under the terms of this lease, the lessor leased a certain parcel of land located in Altona, New York, to the lessee for a period of five years commencing on July 29, 1977. The People of the State of New York, acting through the

\(^2\) The settlor of the Turtle Island Trust was Ann Louise Maytag, and the trustees were Robert S. Charland, Jon L. Regier and Ann Louise Maytag. A committee, appointed by the Ganienkeh Council Fire, was to advise and consult with the trustees and the Ganienkeh Council Fire concerning the operation and administration of the trust, to make recommendations to the trustees concerning distribution or use of the trust fund or other property, and to assist the trustees in carrying out the purposes of the trust. The term of the trust is perpetual.
Commissioner of Environmental Conservation, also gave a Temporary Revocable Permit, dated October 28, 1977, to the Turtle Island Trust that permitted the trust to use tracts or parcels of land situated in the towns of Schuyler Falls and Saranac (reforestation area), Clinton County, New York, for the purposes of hunting, fishing, trapping and forest management. Successive leases for the Altona parcel were entered into by the parties on July 29, 1982 (five-year term) and May 17, 1987 (five-year term), which extended the lease term to July 30, 1992. By letter dated July 30, 1992, Langdon Marsh, then-Executive Deputy Commissioner of the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, notified the Turtle Island Trust that the trust became a month to month tenant under the same terms and conditions of the lease, because of ongoing negotiations to resolve an alleged violation of the then-present lease.

14. The cigarettes that ERW Wholesale sold to Oien’Kwa Trading were manufactured by King Mountain Tobacco Company, Inc. (King Mountain), a Native American owned business located on the Yakama Indian Reservation in the State of Washington. The Confederated Tribes and Bands of the Yakama Nation is recognized by the BIA. King Mountain grows the tobacco for its cigarettes on the Yakama Reservation, and makes and boxes the cigarettes on the Yakama Reservation. All cigarettes that ERW Wholesale purchases from King Mountain are delivered to ERW Wholesale, by common carrier, at its Cattaraugus warehouse, in sealed cases.

15. Mr. Clark oversaw the processing and loading (fulfilling) of the Oien’Kwa order on December 1, 2012. On that date, a total of 150 cases of King Mountain cigarettes were loaded onto a truck. On the dates at issue herein, the truck, a white 1999 Ford box truck (also described as a “cube van”) with a roll-up rear door, was owned, individually, by Eric R. White. This vehicle was, however, registered to petitioner, ERW Enterprises, as a commercial vehicle per Department of Transportation (DOT) rules, and it bore the name ERW Enterprises, Inc., as well as its DOT number, on its sides. Mr. Clark explained that the truck was used as a delivery vehicle for ERW Wholesale’s tobacco business, as well as to transport materials, from time-to-time, for the construction business in which ERW Enterprises is engaged. The truck’s registration to ERW Enterprises was done, initially, for DOT compliance purposes, due to the gross vehicle weight (GVW) capacity of the truck. As Mr. Clark testified in Matter of Snyder, at the time of the truck’s acquisition, ERW Enterprises, and not ERW Wholesale, had “a designation to be able to put the DOT number on its side.” At about the time of the transactions at issue, the truck’s registration was in the process of being changed from ERW Enterprises to ERW Wholesale because, according to Mr. Clark, the truck “no longer had a usefulness for the construction company.” Subsequent to the dates at issue, and after performance of a significant amount of repair work, the truck was re-registered to ERW Wholesale.

16. On December 1, 2012, Shawn E. Snyder, then a 22-year-old member of the Seneca Nation of Indians, and an employee of ERW Wholesale, was asked to drive and deliver the load of cigarettes to Saihwahenteh at Ganienkeh. As an employee of ERW Wholesale, Mr. Snyder typically delivered cigarettes to Indian territories and retailers located in the Western New York area, i.e., local deliveries. However, because another employee had just left ERW Wholesale’s employment, Mr. Snyder was asked to step in and make the longer distance drop shipment delivery at issue in this case.

17. The Division asserts that the record is “unclear” as to whether Mr. Snyder was employed by ERW Enterprises or by ERW Wholesale. The Division’s assertion is principally based upon the narrative portion of an Incident Report, completed by State Police Investigator

3 In the present matter, Mr. Clark similarly testified that, at the time of the truck’s initial registration, ERW Enterprises was “the only ones [sic] that had the DOT clearance for that size vehicle.
Joel Revette on December 4, 2012, in connection with the seizure of the cigarettes being delivered, indicating that Mr. Snyder stated he was employed by ERW Enterprises, as follows:

“On 12/03/12, I interviewed the driver, Shawn E. Snyder, . . . , who stated that he worked for ERW Enterprises, . . . , and was transporting cigarettes from the Oneida Indian Reservation to the Ganienkeh Territory. Snyder stated he was hauling 7260 cartons of cigarettes and provided an invoice. Snyder usually delivers cigarettes locally on the Oneida Indian Reservation, but a driver quit the company earlier in the day and his employer asked him to drive to Ganienkeh and deliver the load of cigarettes. Snyder stated he met a subject in a hotel parking lot across from the Turning Stone Casino. The subject he met worked for a different wholesaler. Snyder stated they transferred the load from the other company’s van to his in the parking lot. Snyder had no further information relative to the identity of the other company or driver.”

18. The balance of the evidence, including the clear, consistent and credible testimony given by Dwayne Clark in this matter, and in Matter of Snyder, supports the fact that Mr. Snyder was employed by ERW Wholesale, and not by ERW Enterprises. In Matter of Snyder, Mr. Snyder testified that he was “employed by Mr. White,” as opposed to ERW Enterprises or any other specific entity, and that he was “uncertain” as to which entity in particular he “fell under.” Mr. Clark, thereafter, specified in his testimony that Mr. Snyder was employed by ERW Wholesale, and that his duties did not “bleed over” into those of Mr. White’s other businesses, including ERW Enterprises. This is consistent with Mr. Snyder’s description of his regular employment activities as a local cigarette delivery person for ERW Wholesale. There is nothing in the record, beyond Mr. Snyder’s (unwritten) statement at the time the vehicle was stopped by the State Police for inspection, to support a factual conclusion that he was employed by ERW Enterprises and not by ERW Wholesale. The ERW Enterprises logo on the sides of the truck, coupled with its registration to ERW Enterprises, appears to have simply given rise to an erroneous assumption that Mr. Snyder was employed by that entity and not by ERW Wholesale.
19. Each case of cigarettes is a sealed cardboard box containing 60 cartons of cigarettes. Each case was sealed when it was delivered from King Mountain, by common carrier, to ERW Wholesale (see finding of fact 14). After the order was processed at ERW’s facility, the sealed cases of cigarettes were loaded onto the truck, and the roll-up door to the truck was padlocked. Mr. Clark also put a seal on the back of the truck. Mr. Clark could not specifically recall if the seal was affixed before or after the padlock was secured to the back door of the truck. None of the 150 cases of cigarettes were open when they were loaded onto the truck. Because each case was sealed when loaded, it was not possible to see the cartons of cigarettes stored in the cases, or the packs of cigarettes stored in the cartons, without physically opening the cases. The only way to determine whether the cigarettes being transported in fact bore New York State tax stamps was to physically open a case, pull out a carton, open the carton and pull out and inspect a pack of cigarettes.

20. Before leaving to transport the cigarettes to Saihwahenteh on Sunday, December 2, 2012, Mr. Snyder was provided with copies of ERW Wholesale invoices Nos. 11 and 12, each dated December 1, 2012 (see finding of fact 23). There is no information on either invoice indicating that Shawn Snyder, on behalf of ERW Wholesale, was transporting King Mountain cigarettes, or whether tax stamps were affixed to the cigarette packs, including New York State tax stamps. Mr. Snyder was also provided with a copy of the ERW Wholesale Bill of Lading, dated December 1, 2012 (see finding of fact 25). Likewise, there is no information thereon indicating that Shawn Snyder, on behalf of ERW Wholesale, was transporting King Mountain cigarettes, or whether tax stamps were affixed to the cigarette packs, including New York State tax stamps. In addition, located in the truck was its registration, its New York State insurance identification card, and a white packet prepared by ERW Wholesale.

22. The author of the forwarded email was Richard Ernst, then-Deputy Commissioner for the Office of Tax Enforcement. Mr. Ernst sent this email to some of the chief investigators in the Division’s Criminal Investigation Division on July 6, 2011. The subject of the email was “Cigarette Enforcement,” and included possible scenarios “involving the movement of untaxed cigarettes in NYS (either premium alone, premium and native [sic] American or just native [sic] American and when we could seize and/or charge.” As relevant to this matter, the July 6, 2011 email states:

“Native Americans transporting untaxed native [sic] American cigarettes from one reservation in NYS to another reservation in NYS. - Don’t Seize.”

4 Shortly before the July 6, 2011 date of the Ernst email, New York State Senators George Maziarz and
In testimony in Matter of Snyder, Mr. Ernst explained that the email was intended to provide direction to the Division’s criminal investigators in the field.

23. The record includes copies of ERW Wholesale’s Invoices Nos. 10, 11, and 12, each dated December 1, 2012. The top portion of each of the invoices carries the name “ERW WHOLESALE–SOVEREIGN SENeca TERRITORY, 11157 Old Lakeshore Road, Irving, NY 14081.” The invoices were issued “TO: Oien’Kwa Trading, St. Regis Mohawk Territory, 76 Geronimo Lane, Akwesasne, NY, 12655.” Invoice No. 11 sets forth Oien’Kwa’s purchase of various quantities of six types of cigarettes, totaling 9,000 cartons, from ERW Wholesale. Invoice No. 11 further specifies that the cigarettes are to be “SHIPPED TO: Saihwahenteh, Ganienkeh Territory, 102 Devils Den Road, Altona, New York, [phone number].” Review of the invoices indicates that the top third of each of the three invoices sets forth seven preprinted columns, while the lower portion of the invoices sets forth six preprinted columns, respectively. Each of the invoices clearly states that the cigarettes are “Exempt.”

With respect to the cigarettes purchased by Oien’Kwa Trading from ERW Wholesale, and thereafter sold by Oien’Kwa to Saihwahenteh, with shipment and delivery to Saihwahenteh to be made by ERW Wholesale, Invoice No. 11 presents the following:

Tim Kennedy sent a letter to the New York State Department of Taxation and Finance, dated May 16, 2011, in which they stated: (i) “[i]t is our view that Native Brand cigarettes, which are produced and sold on lands owned by Native Nations, constitutes commerce that is essentially Native to Native, and therefore cannot be regulated or taxed by the State of New York;” and (ii) “[i]t is our view that the State should not pursue an effort to collect taxes on Native Brands because such an effort would be contrary to the sovereign rights of the Native American Nations, and would be a severe blow to the Native retail economy.”

5 To the left of the fill-in box on each invoice where the word “Exempt” appears are the preprinted words “Sales Tax.” Although the cigarette tax at issue is an excise tax, the preprinted invoice listing of “Sales Tax” followed by the filled-in word “Exempt” is a distinction of no apparent consequence for purposes of this matter.
24. As noted, Invoice No. 12 contains the same information regarding the quantity, item number, and description of the cigarettes, totaling 9,000 cartons, as set forth above on Invoice No. 11. However, on Invoice No. 12, a unit price of $.25 is set forth to the right of each of the particular carton listings in the “unit price” column, for a total of $2,250.00. This amount represents the shipping charge (delivery fee) paid to ERW Wholesale for “drop ship” transporting the cigarettes from the Cattaraugus Reservation to Saiwhahenteh at the behest of Oien’Kwa Trading.
25. Invoice No. 10 is ERW Wholesale’s Bill of Lading. It contains the same information as appears on the top third of invoices Nos. 11 and 12. The balance of the Bill of Lading contains only the information regarding the quantity, item number and description of the cigarettes, as detailed in the above invoices. There is no information on the Bill of Lading that indicates that King Mountain cigarettes (or any other manufacturer’s particular brands of cigarettes) were being transported.

26. On December 2, 2012, Mr. Snyder departed from ERW Wholesale on the Cattaraugus Reservation with 150 cases of cigarettes. He departed driving the same truck that had been loaded, sealed and padlocked on the preceding day, as described above, and that was ultimately stopped by the State Police on December 3, 2012.

27. On December 2, 2012, at around 4:00 or 5:00 p.m., the truck Mr. Snyder was driving eastbound on the New York State Thruway (Interstate Route 90 or I-90) experienced a flat tire, forcing him to exit I-90 at Verona, New York, near the Turning Stone Casino. Mr. Snyder noted that the truck was losing braking power and was leaning when he turned to the right. After pulling over to the side of the road, exiting the truck, and observing that the right front tire was shredded, Mr. Snyder called Mr. Clark, his supervisor at ERW Wholesale, for help. Mr. Clark tried contacting a local repair shop, but he was unsuccessful because it was late on a Sunday. After speaking by telephone with Mr. White, who was in Long Island, New York, helping with post-Hurricane Sandy clean up, Mr. Clark contacted Michael Webber, ERW Enterprises’ in-house mechanic, to help Mr. Snyder. Mr. Webber was scheduled to drive to Long Island, on December 3, 2012, to deliver construction equipment (an excavator grapple) to Mr. White for use there by ERW Enterprises in its storm clean-up work. Mr. Webber obtained a replacement tire for the truck, and on December 2, 2012 at approximately 6:00 p.m. departed from the Cattaraugus Reservation in a road service truck to meet Mr. Snyder.

28. Mr. Webber arrived at Mr. Snyder’s location at approximately 12:30 a.m. Although Mr. Webber’s service truck was equipped to perform roadside repairs and included an air compressor and tools to replace the flat tire on the truck Mr. Snyder was driving, Mr. Webber was only able to perform a temporary fix because the vehicle’s wheel bearing was damaged. Mr. Webber used the truck’s spare tire to make a temporary repair. Thereafter, Mr. Snyder drove the truck a short distance to a hotel (Fairfield Inn) located just off the I-90 exit, and Mr. Snyder and Mr. Webber stayed overnight until December 3, 2012. Mr. Snyder made the hotel reservation, while Mr. Webber parked the truck in a well-lit location, as directed by the hotel manager on duty, where it was backed up to a wall such that the contents were not accessible and were secure against theft.

29. On the morning of December 3, 2012, Mr. Webber and Mr. Snyder repaired the truck using parts they purchased at a local auto parts store, including a replacement wheel bearing, as well as a chisel, grinding wheels and emery cloth, needed to remove the damaged wheel bearing and clean and ready the truck’s spindle for installation of the new wheel bearing. Upon completion of the repairs, Mr. Webber continued on his scheduled travel to Long Island. Mr. Snyder likewise proceeded with his travel to the Ganienkeh territory to deliver the cigarettes he was transporting. The route of travel followed by Mr. Snyder primarily traversed the eastbound I-90, and thereafter the northbound Adirondack Northway (Interstate Route 87 or I-87). The record includes a copy of the hotel bill for the overnight stay but does not include receipts for the purchases of the described repair parts or tools. Mr. Webber stated that the parts receipts were either left in the service truck or were dropped off with Mr. White in Long Island.

30. On December 3, 2012, the State Police Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Unit was conducting a border checkpoint commercial truck inspection running northbound and southbound on I-87 in the Town of Peru, Clinton County, New York. Specifically, the commercial vehicle inspection stations were located at the northbound and southbound Valcour rest areas. Because the focus of the commercial vehicle inspections was international trucking, a State Police K-9 Unit was assigned to the Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Unit to sniff for drugs and/or explosives. Shortly before the exit into both the northbound and southbound Valcour rest areas, a sign indicated that the rest area was a “Commercial inspection station,” and that “All trucks must exit,” and go through the commercial vehicle inspection station checkpoint.7

31. On December 3, 2012, Trooper Stephen Posada was on routine patrol of I-87, northbound, in the town of Peru. At 2:10 p.m., Trooper Posada observed a white box truck, driven by Mr. Snyder, fail to stop at the commercial vehicle inspection station (inspection station), northbound in the town of Peru. At about 2:13 p.m., Trooper Posada initiated a vehicle and traffic stop of the truck. He radioed the Commercial Vehicle inspectors at the northbound inspection station that he had stopped a “drive-by” just north of their location. They advised Trooper Posada to “let them know what he had.” After approaching the truck, Trooper Posada asked Mr. Snyder for his license and the vehicle registration. He also asked Mr. Snyder about 7 As part of a federally funded program, the Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Unit is charged with ensuring that commercial vehicles are safe and roadworthy. The primary objective of the program is to promote highway safety and reduce commercial vehicle related crashes and hazardous material incidents by removing trucks, unsafe loads, and unqualified drivers from the highways (see 20 NYCRR 820.7; 49 CFR §§ 396.9, 396.11).

the contents of the load he was carrying. Mr. Snyder gave Trooper Posada his driver’s license, the truck’s registration, the bill of lading, and the two invoices, and stated that he was transporting cigarettes. Mr. Snyder also told Trooper Posada that he was transporting the cigarettes to the Ganienkeh territory. Trooper Posada instructed Mr. Snyder to follow him to the commercial vehicle checkpoint inspection station located on I-87 southbound. Trooper Posada described Mr. Snyder as being “very nervous,” and unable to follow his directions regarding how to get to the southbound inspection station. Trooper Posada radioed back to the Commercial Vehicle inspectors to let them know that he had a commercial vehicle stopped, and that he needed assistance escorting the truck back to the inspection station. Within a few minutes, Trooper Michael Spadaro arrived at the vehicle stop and assisted Trooper Posada in escorting Mr. Snyder to the southbound inspection station located in Peru, New York.

32. Upon arriving at the inspection station, Mr. Snyder was stripped of his keys for the truck. Mr. Snyder noted that he typically wears comfortable clothing for long drives and was attired on the day in question in shorts and a tee shirt. He described the day as “cold,” and noted that without possession of the keys, he was unable to run the vehicle or use its heater.

33. At the inspection station, Trooper Posada gave the bill of lading and the invoices to the State Police investigator on duty, Joel Revette. Trooper Posada informed Investigator Revette that Mr. Snyder was transporting cigarettes to Ganienkeh. Trooper Posada then issued a uniform traffic ticket, number 1B88CMFSP, to Mr. Snyder. The ticket issued to Mr. Snyder provided that the violation committed by Mr. Snyder was “Disobeyed Traffic Control Device.” Thereafter, Trooper Posada gave Mr. Snyder’s driver’s license and the truck’s registration to Trooper Spadaro, who had assisted in escorting Mr. Snyder to the inspection station.8

8 The Administrative Law Judge’s finding of fact 33 also states that Trooper Posada told Investigator Revette...
34. At no time did Mr. Snyder inform Trooper Posada of the brands of cigarettes he was transporting. Trooper Posada confirmed that neither the invoice that was provided to him nor the bill of lading provided to him identified the name of the cigarettes’ manufacturer. He also confirmed that at the time he stopped Mr. Snyder, he did not know the types of cigarettes being transported, the manufacturer of the cigarettes, or whether the cigarettes bore tax stamps.

35. Investigator Revette contacted his supervisor, Lieutenant Scott Heggelke, and informed him that a truck had been stopped for passing a safety inspection station, and that he believed the cigarettes Mr. Snyder was transporting, on behalf of ERW Wholesale, were unstamped. When Investigator Revette first spoke with Lieutenant Heggelke, he only assumed that the cigarettes did not bear tax stamps. Lieutenant Heggelke responded that he would make some telephone calls and call Investigator Revette back.

36. Investigator Revette was told to detain the driver and the load until a decision was made. Mr. Snyder was not placed under arrest. At the same time, Mr. Snyder was not free to leave during the stop or inspection. At no time did any of the troopers or investigators inform Mr. Snyder of his Miranda rights.

37. Investigator Revette did not perform safety inspections and had limited knowledge regarding safety inspections. During the stop, the truck was inspected by Trooper Spadaro. The vehicle safety inspection conducted by Trooper Spadaro was not a “full-blown” inspection, but rather a Level 2 inspection, which includes checking brakes, tires and safety equipment. A State Police K-9 unit sniffed around the truck, but nothing was detected.

that he (Posada) “believed the cigarettes did not bear tax stamps.” On exception, petitioners contend that the record does not support such a finding. This finding of fact has been modified accordingly.
38. The Driver/Vehicle Examination Report prepared by Trooper Spadaro provides that the following violations were found: (i) "Fail to Obey Traffic Controll [sic] Device Driver Fails to Stop at I-87 Valcour Northbound Inspection Site;" (ii) "ABS Malfunction Indicators for HYDR Brake Sys - ABS Indicator Light remains on as Vehicle is Running;" and (iii) "Inadequate Rear Object Detection Device Not Properly Adjusted (Rear View Mirror)."9 The Driver/Examination Report also listed the "Cargo" as "CIGARETTES," and "HazMat" "NO HM TRANSPORTED." According to the Driver/Examination Report, the vehicle safety inspection conducted by Trooper Spadaro commenced at 2:20 p.m. and ended at 3:06 p.m. When the safety inspection concluded at 3:06 p.m., the back door of the truck had not yet been opened and the truck’s contents had not been inspected.

39. According to Investigator Revette, during the stop and subsequent inspection of the truck, Mr. Snyder appeared “apparently normal.” This contrasts with Trooper Posada’s observation that Mr. Snyder was very nervous when first stopped, and had difficulty with the instructions concerning how to proceed to the inspection area on the southbound side of I-87. Mr. Snyder’s testimony indicated that he was “initially nervous,” but then he became calm.

40. At some point during the period of detainment, Mr. Snyder gave Investigator Revette the white packet of documents. The name and telephone number of Mr. Snyder’s attorney was also provided to Investigator Revette.

41. After the safety inspection was completed, Mr. Snyder was asked for the key to the padlock securing the back door of the truck, in order to allow the State Police to unlock the back door. Mr. Snyder could not, initially, locate the key for the padlock. Nobody specifically asked 9 The Driver/Vehicle Examination Report indicates that no citations were issued for the ABS indicator light malfunction and the improperly adjusted rear view mirror violations.

Mr. Snyder for permission to open the back door of the truck or to enter the back of the truck. When Mr. Snyder was told that the padlock on the door was going to be cut, he responded by stating “whatever.” Prior to Mr. Snyder locating the key, Trooper Posada used bolt cutters to cut off the padlock securing the back door of the truck and opened the roll-up door. According to Investigator Revette, Trooper Posada was permitted to cut off the padlock and open the back door of the truck because safety inspectors are permitted to check the safety of a truck’s load, determine how it is placed and identify the content of the load. The vehicle is a panel truck and there are no windows affording a view to the inside cargo area of the vehicle. There is a door or passage panel between the cab of the truck and the cargo area. However, because the truck was fully loaded, it was not possible to open this door or panel to gain access or a view into the cargo area of the vehicle.

42. In his notes, Investigator Revette wrote that upon opening the back door of the truck, he “observed many full cases of cigs - nothing unusual.” Investigator Revette admitted that the content of the cases, i.e., cigarettes, could be determined by reading the information provided on the outside of the cases.

43. Prior to cutting the padlock and opening the back door of the truck, Trooper Posada had no knowledge as to the manufacturer of the cigarettes stored in the truck, or if the cigarettes in the truck bore tax stamps.

44. After cutting the padlock and confirming the contents of the truck matched Mr. Snyder’s description and corresponding documentation, i.e., sealed cases of cigarettes, and were not hazardous or dangerous to the public as improperly secured, Investigator Revette nonetheless removed one of the sealed cases from the truck and opened it. No warrant was obtained to open the case of cigarettes. Nobody from the State Police contacted Mr. Snyder’s attorney to tell him that they were going to cut the padlock off the back door of the truck and open the cases of cigarettes being stored on the truck.

45. The outside portion of the cases did not reveal whether the cigarettes bore tax stamps. At no time during the stop or inspection did anyone ask Mr. Snyder if the cigarettes in the truck bore tax stamps. The only way to confirm if the cigarettes in the cases bore tax stamps was to open a sealed case, open a carton, and view the cigarette packs in the carton.

46. After opening a case of cigarettes, Investigator Revette opened a carton and pulled out a pack of cigarettes. Upon removing the cigarette pack from the carton, Investigator Revette observed and confirmed that there were no tax stamps on the cigarettes.

47. The State Police were unsure if they should seize the cigarettes, in part due to the July 6, 2011 email which stated (as relevant here) that unstamped Native American cigarettes being transported by a Native American from one New York State Indian reservation to another New York State Indian reservation should not be seized (see finding of fact 22).

48. Investigator Revette had several conversations with Lieutenant Heggelke concerning the cigarettes. Around 6:00 p.m. on December 3, 2012, Investigator Revette was instructed by Lieutenant Heggelke to seize the cigarettes, copy the documents and release Mr. Snyder and the truck. Investigator Revette was also informed that the Clinton County District Attorney was not going to pursue criminal charges.

49. After receiving the instruction to seize the cigarettes, Investigator Revette instructed Mr. Snyder to drive the truck to the Plattsburgh State Police station. Mr. Snyder complied with Investigator Revette’s instructions and drove the truck to the Plattsburgh State Police station.

50. At the Plattsburgh State Police station, the cases of cigarettes were unloaded from the truck and placed into a garage located at the police station. Investigator Revette photocopied the documents provided by Mr. Snyder, and the originals were given back to Mr. Snyder. Once the cigarettes were unloaded at the Plattsburgh State Police station, and the original documents were returned to him, Mr. Snyder was free to leave in the truck at approximately 7:00 p.m.

51. On December 5, 2012, the State Police released “140 cases of assorted King Mountain cigarettes” to Investigator Anthony Vona, of the Division’s Criminal Investigation Division, for transport to the Division’s Rotterdam, New York, warehouse. After the cases of cigarettes were loaded into Mr. Vona’s truck, he drove to the Rotterdam warehouse. On December 6, 2012, Mr. Vona completed a Form EN-651, Office of Tax Enforcement Property Receipt/Release, bearing case number 201201452, so that the “140 cases of King Mountain Cigarettes” could be placed in the warehouse and documented in the warehouse computer system.

52. Petitioner’s exhibit 6 consists of two photographs. The first photograph depicts the cases of cigarettes that were found in the back of the truck, after their transport to the Division’s warehouse. Although some of the cases in the picture are open, all of the cases were sealed when the back door of the truck was first opened. Although multiple cases of cigarettes depicted in the photograph are open, at no point was a warrant obtained to open the cases. The cases of cigarettes are still being stored at the Division’s warehouse. The second photograph in exhibit 6 depicts an open carton of cigarettes, consisting of 10 cellophane packages of King Mountain cigarettes.¹⁰

53. Although 150 cases of cigarettes were purchased (by Oien’Kwa Trading), and loaded onto the truck at the ERW Wholesale warehouse at Cattaraugus, as testified to by Mr. Snyder and Mr. Clark and as shown per the ERW Wholesale documents described herein, the State Police reported that only 140 cases of cigarettes were seized. There is thus an unexplained discrepancy between the number of cases of cigarettes Mr. Snyder was transporting, per the invoices, bill of lading, and the testimony of Mr. Snyder and Mr. Clark, versus the number of cases of cigarettes the Division claims were seized, i.e., a discrepancy of 10 cases of cigarettes (the equivalent of 600 cartons of cigarettes). ERW Wholesale never received the “missing” 10 cases of cigarettes back from the State Police or the Division, never received any explanation as to what happened to such 10 cases, and has no knowledge as to what happened to the 10 cases. Likewise, the record includes no information or evidence concerning the 10 cases.11

54. The Division maintains that the record is “unclear” as to the location where the cigarettes were first loaded onto the truck being driven by Shawn Snyder. In particular, the Division references statements allegedly made by Mr. Snyder, as set forth in Investigator Revette’s Incident Report (see finding of fact 17), to the effect that Mr. Snyder was coming from the Akwesasne Reservation and transporting cigarettes to the Ganienkeh Territory, that he had left the Akwesasne Reservation earlier in the day (December 3, 2012), and had met an unnamed and unidentified individual in a parking lot across from the Turning Stone Casino near Verona, New York, where cigarettes were unloaded from the unknown person’s van and then loaded into the (presumably empty) box truck being driven by Mr. Snyder.

11 In fact the narrative portion of the Incident Report notes Mr. Snyder’s alleged statement that he picked up and was transporting some 7260 cartons (121 cases) of cigarettes. There is no other reference in the record to this number of cartons or cases, and there is no correlation between the calculation of the penalty at issue herein and this number of cartons of cigarettes (see findings of fact 17 and 57).
55. The balance of the evidence contradicts the factual accuracy of the foregoing scenario, and does not support its acceptance as a fact. First, the invoices and the bill of lading, each specify the amount of cigarettes being transported as 9,000 cartons (150 cases). These documents were in existence and were located in the van on the date of seizure, and were provided to the State Police at that time. Further, there is the clear testimony of Dwayne Clark and Michael Webber in this proceeding, coupled with the testimony of Mr. Clark and Mr. Snyder in Matter of Snyder, concerning the events in question. In particular, Mr. Snyder directly testified that he did not receive any cigarettes at or during the repair stop near the Turning Stone Casino at the Oneida Reservation, but rather that the truck was loaded, locked and secured (as described) from the time he left the Cattaraugus Reservation until he was stopped by the State Police, at which time the lock was cut and the rear door of the truck was opened. Further, Mr. Snyder clarified that his initial statement, to the effect that he was coming from the Oneida Indian Reservation, was made because “that’s where the truck broke down,” and that was, in fact, where he was coming from when he was stopped. Also noteworthy is the fact that the King Mountain cigarettes were initially delivered (by common carrier) to ERW Wholesale’s facilities at the Cattaraugus Reservation, and remained physically located there before their sale to Oien’Kwa Trading. This undisputed fact, coupled with the disparate geographic locations of, and distances between, the Cattaraugus Reservation, in far Western New York, the Akwesasne Reservation in far (upstate) Northeastern New York, and the Ganienkeh Territory, also in far (upstate) Northeastern New York, and in comparatively close proximity to the Akwesasne Reservation, casts significant doubt upon the accuracy and likelihood of an alternative finding, as suggested and founded upon the narrative portion of the Incident Report. Without more, there is simply insufficient basis to accept that an empty vehicle driven by Mr. Snyder left the Akwesasne territory, and traveled to the Oneida territory to meet with an unidentified person and accept a different quantity load of King Mountain cigarettes to be delivered to the Ganienkeh territory.

It is also noted that the factual accuracy of some of the information set forth on the Incident Report is belied by certain inconsistencies therein. In particular, that report lists the quantity of cigarettes allegedly accepted by Mr. Snyder at Oneida as 7,260 cartons, which equates to 121 cases of cigarettes. This quantity appears nowhere else in the record, and differs significantly from both the 150 cases listed on the invoices as having been purchased by Oien’Kwa and loaded at Cattaraugus for drop shipment transport to Saihwahenteh, and the 140 cases listed as seized by the State Police and transferred to the custody of the Division (see finding of fact 53, footnote 11). Finally, 121 cases (7,260 cartons) is not the quantity of cigarettes upon which the penalty assessed by the Division in this matter was calculated (see findings of fact 56 and 57). Without more, the record supports the fact that on December 1, 2012, at ERW Wholesale’s Warehouse on the Cattaraugus Reservation, 150 sealed cases of cigarettes were loaded onto, secured and sealed within the truck that was to be driven by Mr. Snyder (see findings of fact 15 and 19), and remained within the truck, notwithstanding the December 2, 2012 overnight trip interruption for necessary tire and wheel bearing repair, until such time as the truck was stopped, inspected, and the cigarettes were seized.

56. As noted in finding of fact 1, the Division issued identical notices of determination to each petitioner, with each such notice asserting a penalty due in the amount of $1,259,250.00 for the tax period ended December 3, 2012. At the time of the occurrence, a fine of up to $150.00 per carton could be assessed against anyone possessing untaxed, i.e., unstamped, cigarettes in New York. The subject notices were drafted under the direction of the Division’s Office of Counsel, and not by the Cigarette and Registration and Bond Unit of the Division, as is more typically the case.

57. The $1,259,250.00 penalty assessed by the Division was calculated as follows: (a) 140 cases of cigarettes containing 60 cartons per case for a total of 8,400 cartons seized; (b) less five cartons because the law allows for a $150.00 fine per carton in excess of five cartons, thus leaving; (c) 8,395 cartons that were (d) multiplied by $150.00 to (e) result in a penalty of $1,259,250.00. When questioned in Matter of Snyder as to the method of calculating the amount of the penalty, the Division’s witness responded as follows:

“Q. Now, where does that $150 penalty number come from?
A. Penalty number is for possession of unstamped cigarettes in Section 481 (b) (i).
Q. And is that number a fixed number, is it part of a range?
A. It’s up to $150 at that time. Subsequent to this action, it has been raised to $600 per carton in excess of five [cartons].

Q. When the Department assesses a civil penalty assessment, what numbers do they generally use on that range?
A. In general at that time, we would assess the full amount of $150 penalty per carton in excess of the five [cartons].
Q. So would you say the use of the 150 was standard?
A. Yes.”

58. The value of the cigarettes seized is, per the invoices, $164,250.00. Although the Division asserts that each petitioner owes a $1,259,250.00 penalty for the cigarettes that were seized on December 3, 2012, neither of the notices of determination imposes tax or interest on the cigarettes seized.

12 See exhibit 25, pp 51 - 52 (transcript of proceedings in Matter of Snyder).
59. It is undisputed that in addition to the notices at issue herein, separate notices of determination, each in the amount of $1,259,250.00, were also issued to Shawn E. Snyder, King Mountain Tobacco (Mountain Tobacco Company), Oien’Kwa Trading and Saihwahenteh.

60. A hearing was held before Administrative Law Judge Dennis M. Galliher on January 11, 2017, at which both the Division and petitioners presented witnesses and documentary evidence. After the completion of the hearing, the parties submitted briefs in support of their respective positions. The issues identified, and applicable to both ERW Enterprises and ERW Wholesale, were:

I. Whether petitioners were in possession or had control of unstamped or unlawfully stamped cigarettes so as to be liable for the penalty imposed pursuant to Tax Law § 481 (1) (b) (i).

II. Whether, if so, the foregoing penalty should be canceled because the same violates the Excessive Fines Clause of the Eighth Amendment to the United States Constitution and the New York State Constitution at Article 1, section 5.

III. Whether the penalty should be canceled because the stop, search and resulting seizure of the cigarettes being transported in this case violated petitioners’ rights under the Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution and the New York State Constitution at Article 1, section 12.

61. On the first issue (possession and control), ERW Enterprises asserted at hearing that it was a construction company, and was entirely uninvolved in the tobacco wholesale business operated by ERW Wholesale, including the events concerning the transport of the unstamped Native American brand cigarettes from one Native American territory (the Cattaraugus Reservation) to another Native American territory (the Ganienkeh territory) on behalf of Oien’Kwa Trading, a Native American business, as allegedly entirely carried out by ERW Wholesale, as a contract carrier simply transporting such cigarettes. Petitioners asserted that Tax Law § 481 (2) (b) exempts a contract carrier, acting within the scope of his employment, from the penalty imposed pursuant to Tax Law § 481 (1) (b) (i). At the January 11, 2017 hearing, both petitioners argued that ERW Enterprises’ only connection to the transaction at issue was the fact that the vehicle involved was registered to ERW Enterprises, and that such basis was simply insufficient to support imposition of the penalty at issue as against ERW Enterprises. The Division maintained that petitioner was not entitled to the exemption afforded by Tax Law § 481 (2) (b) because it did not satisfy the statutory requirements of such section. The Division asserted that ERW Enterprises was not engaged in the lawful transportation of unstamped cigarettes because it was not a New York State licensed agent or distributor, and was not lawfully transporting the unstamped cigarettes on behalf of a New York State licensed agent or distributor.

62. On March 15, 2018, a determination was issued that decided each of the foregoing issues in favor of the Division, and thus upheld the penalty as assessed by the Division against both ERW Enterprises and ERW Wholesale. In relevant part, that determination rejected ERW Enterprises’ claim that there was insufficient basis to impose the penalty because that entity was not in “possession or control” of the unstamped cigarettes on December 3, 2012, concluding as follows:

“[p]etitioners’ argument that the mere use of the ERW Enterprises registered vehicle provides insufficient support to justify the imposition of penalty against ERW Enterprises is rejected. In fact, not only was the vehicle registered to ERW Enterprises, but it also bore an ERW Enterprises logo and DOT registration information on its sides. Further, the vehicle was admittedly used in both the wholesale tobacco business operated by ERW Wholesale, and in the construction business operated by ERW Enterprises, albeit allegedly to a greater degree by the former business and only ‘from time to time’ by the latter entity (see finding of fact 15). Moreover, this commercially registered vehicle was, in fact, packed full of unstamped cigarettes for purposes of fulfilling the delivery of the cigarettes sold and to be delivered by ERW Wholesale.13 As the Division points out, the

13 This fact was not only confirmed by the examination (search and seizure) by the State Police at the time of the stop, but was discernible even without such intervention by virtue of the information set forth on the various transaction at issue (sale and delivery of cigarettes as structured) could not have been accomplished without the involvement of both petitioners, to wit, ERW Wholesale was a necessary party as the owner and seller of the cigarettes, and ERW Enterprises was a necessary party by virtue of the fact that the only available commercially registered vehicle with the load capacity to carry out the delivery was in fact registered to that entity. Also, Mr. Webber, who performed the in-transit repairs to the vehicle, was identified as ERW Enterprises’ in-house mechanic (see finding of fact 27). These undisputed facts militate against the claim that there was no ‘bleed over’ with respect to the separate business activities in which the respective petitioners were engaged. In addition, Eric R. White was the sole owner of ERW Enterprises, and the sole owner and operator of Eric R. White d/b/a ERW Wholesale, and he was actively involved in the operation and control of each of such businesses. Petitioner ERW Enterprises essentially seeks the liability insulation afforded to separate entities as a result of their status as such, yet its actions are inconsistent with such a claim, and fail to establish that petitioners acted in a manner that respected such separation. Under all of these factors, it cannot be said that the entities involved observed the requisite formalities pursuant to which petitioner ERW Enterprises might legitimately claim it was, as a separate entity, improperly being subjected to the penalty at issue herein.”

63. Both ERW Enterprises and ERW Wholesale challenged the determination of the Administrative Law Judge on all issues presented by filing an exception with the Tax Appeals Tribunal. By a decision dated May 29, 2019, the Tribunal affirmed the determination of the Administrative Law Judge as to ERW Wholesale, but reversed the determination of the Administrative Law Judge as to ERW Enterprises, upon the following basis:

“[w]e first address petitioners’ contention that the notice of determination issued to petitioner ERW Enterprises must be canceled because that corporation was not in “possession or control” of the cigarettes on December 3, 2012, as asserted in that notice. We agree. As noted, the delivery truck links ERW Enterprises to the transaction at issue. ERW Enterprises was not in the tobacco trading business and was not in direct control of the truck on December 3, 2012. Rather, ERW Wholesale agreed to deliver the cigarettes to Saihwahenteh for Oien’Kwa Trading and an ERW Wholesale employee drove the truck to make the delivery. Moreover, according to the ‘clear, consistent and credible’ testimony of Mr. Clark, the truck was primarily used by ERW Wholesale to make deliveries of cigarettes and was used only ‘from time to time’ by ERW Enterprises (see findings of fact 15 and 18). Additionally, title to the truck was held by Mr. White invoices and the bill of lading accompanying the shipment, each of which identified the load as tax exempt cigarettes (see findings of fact 23 through 25, and 46 [footnote set forth as in original determination, but renumbered herein as footnote 15 for continuity]).
and not ERW Enterprises. Although the truck was registered to ERW Enterprises and bore that entity’s name and DOT number on its side, this appears to have been a matter of convenience. That is, given the gross vehicle weight, the truck required a DOT number on its side and, at the time, ERW Enterprises, and not ERW Wholesale, had ‘DOT clearance’ for such a vehicle, according to Mr. Clark (see finding of fact 15). The registration in ERW Enterprises’ name was thus done for DOT compliance purposes (id.). The record thus shows that ERW Enterprises generally did not control the use of the truck and was clearly not in control of the truck on December 3, 2012. Given its lack of involvement with any other aspect of the transaction, we find that ERW Enterprises was not in ‘possession or control’ of the load of unstamped cigarettes on that date for purposes of Tax Law § 481 (1) b) (i) (A). The notice of determination issued to petitioner ERW Enterprises must, therefore, be canceled.”

64. On June 27, 2019, petitioner ERW Enterprises filed an application for costs pursuant to Tax Law § 3030 in the Division of Tax Appeals. Petitioner’s application seeks an award of administrative costs and litigation costs in the amount of $62,412.75, consisting specifically of the following items:

(i) $8,027.50 for attorney fees related to legal services provided by Paul Cambria, Esq., based upon a total of 24.70 hours of legal services provided at the rate of $325.00 per hour;

(ii) $224.00 for attorney fees related to legal services provided by Joseph J. Gumkowski, Esq., based upon a total of 0.70 hours of legal services provided at the rate of $320.00 per hour;

(iii) $44,703.50 for attorney fees related to legal services provided by Patrick J. Mackey, Esq., based upon a total of 154.15 hours of legal services provided at the rate of $290.00 per hour;

(iv) $5,664.00 for attorney fees related to legal services provided by Jeffrey Reina, Esq., based upon a total of 17.70 hours of legal services provided at the rate of $320.00 per hour

(v) $3,506.25 for attorney fees related to legal services provided by Erin McCambridge Paris, Esq., based upon a total of 12.75 hours of legal services provided at the rate of $275.00 per hour; and

(vi) $287.50 for legal services provided by law clerks and paralegals, based upon a total of 5.75 hours of legal services provided at the rate of $50.00 per hour.

65. In the event that costs are approved for the foregoing hours, but not in the amounts calculated upon the requested hourly rates, as above, petitioner seeks an award of costs calculated at the rate of $200.00 per hour, as is permissible under IRC (26 USC) § 7430 (Federal Taxpayers Bill of Rights). In the event that costs are approved for the foregoing hours, but not in the amounts calculated upon either of the above-requested hourly rates, petitioner seeks an award of costs calculated at the rate of $75.00 per hour, as is permissible under Tax Law § 3030 (c) (1) (B) (iii).

66. In support of its request for an award of fees, petitioner submitted the affidavits of Mr. Cambria, dated June 27, 2019, with exhibits attached; Mr. Reina, dated June 27, 2019, with exhibits attached; Mr. Gumkowski, dated June 25, 2019, with exhibits attached; Mr. Mackey, dated June 27, 2017, with exhibits attached; and Ms. McCampbell Paris, dated June 25, 2019, with exhibits attached. These affidavits provide the following information:

a) Mr. Cambria is a Senior Partner at Lipsitz Green Scime Cambria LLP (Lipsitz Green), attorneys for petitioner, and has been practicing law in New York State for over 46 years. Mr. Cambria concentrates his practice in criminal law, constitutional law, First Amendment law, zoning and professional licensing defense, and has received numerous awards and recognitions in connection therewith. In his affidavit, Mr. Cambria states that he spent 24.70 hours providing legal services related to petitioner’s prosecution of this proceeding by, among other things: (i) communicating with petitioner; (ii) reviewing pleadings; and (iii) preparing for and attending oral argument held before the Tribunal concerning the exception filed to the determination of the administrative law judge. Attached to Mr. Cambria’s affidavit as Exhibit B is an itemized list of the legal services he provided petitioner and the time spent (hours or portion thereof) performing the identified tasks, as recorded by him in the firm’s electronic billing system and used to prepare Exhibit B. The detailed reconstructed time records list the legal services provided by Mr. Cambria and the amount of time spent on such services on various dates between August 28, 2015 and November 28, 2018. Mr. Cambria avers that his hourly rate is reasonable within the Buffalo, New York area, and is similar to the prevailing rates found in Buffalo for attorneys with his level of experience. He specifically notes that none of the time set forth in Exhibit B is for the legal services he provided to ERW Wholesale in relation to DTA No.
827210.

b) Mr. Reina is a Senior Partner at Lipsitz Green, and has been practicing law in litigation, construction litigation, employment litigation, matrimonial law and intellectual property litigation. Within the realm of business litigation, he has experience working on matters related to the taxation of cigarette sales made by Native Americans. In his affidavit, Mr. Reina states that he spent 17.70 hours providing legal services related to petitioner’s prosecution of this proceeding by, among other things, (i) communicating with petitioner; (ii) communicating with witnesses; (iii) communicating with counsel for the Division of Taxation; (iv) reviewing pleadings; (v) preparing for and attending a hearing in April 2015 relating to petitioner’s request for a conciliation conference; (vi) reviewing the client file and preparing for the hearing held in January 2017; (vii) attending the hearing held in Rochester, New York on January 11, 2017; (viii) reviewing and revising the post-hearing brief and reply brief submitted on behalf of petitioner; and (ix) reviewing and revising the notice of exception that petitioner filed with the Tribunal and the brief submitted in support thereof. Attached to Mr. Reina’s affidavit as Exhibit H is an itemized list of the legal services he provided petitioner and the time spent (hours or portion thereof) performing the identified tasks, as recorded by him in the firm’s electronic billing system and used to prepare Exhibit H. The detailed reconstructed time records list the legal services provided by Mr. Reina and the amount of time spent on such services on various dates between December 26, 2014 and June 14, 2017. Mr. Reina avers that his hourly rate is reasonable within the Buffalo, New York area, and is similar to the prevailing rates found in Buffalo for attorneys with his level of experience. He specifically notes that none of the time set forth in Exhibit H is for the legal services he provided to ERW Wholesale in relation to DTA No. 827210. Finally, attached to Mr. Reina’s affidavit as Exhibit I is an itemized list of the legal services provided to petitioner by law clerks and paralegals employed by Lipsitz Green, and the time they spent (hours or portion thereof) performing certain identified tasks in connection with this matter, as recorded in the firm’s electronic billing system by such paralegals and clerks, and used to prepare Exhibit I. The detailed reconstructed time records list the legal services provided the firm’s paralegals and clerks, and the amount of time spent on such services on various dates between June 15, 2015 and January 9, 2017. Such records list a total of 5.75 hours that was billed at a rate of $50.00 per hour (see finding of fact 64 [vi]).

c) Mr. Gumkowski is of counsel at Lipsitz Green, and has been practicing law in New York State for 39 years. Mr. Gumkowski concentrates his practice in tax law, business and corporate law, banking and intellectual property law. He has extensive experience in matters of state and federal tax law, and has received numerous awards and recognitions. In his affidavit, Mr. Gumkowski states that he spent .70 hours, under the direction of Jeffrey Reina, providing legal services related to petitioner’s prosecution of this proceeding by, among other things: (i) researching various legal issues related the petition filed by petitioner; (ii) drafting a petition for ERW; and (iii) reviewing various pleadings. Attached to Mr. Gumkowski’s affidavit as Exhibit B is an itemized list of the legal services he provided petitioner and the time spent (hours or portion thereof) performing the identified tasks, as recorded by him in the firm’s electronic billing system and used to prepare Exhibit B. The detailed reconstructed time records list the legal services provided by Mr. Gumkowski and the amount of time spent on such services on various dates between December 29, 2014 and June 27, 2016. Mr. Gumkowski avers that his hourly rate is reasonable within the Buffalo, New York area, and is similar to the prevailing rates found in Buffalo for attorneys with his level of experience. He specifically notes that none of the time set forth in Exhibit B is for the legal services he provided to ERW Wholesale in relation to DTA No. 827210.

14 Attached to Mr. Reina’s affidavit, as Exhibit G, is a copy of a National Law Journal article dated December 10, 2007, titled “A nationwide sampling of law firm billing rates,” in which the average rates for two Buffalo area law firms were as follows: (i) Hodgson Russ LLP had average hourly rates of $337.00 for partners and $219.00 for associates; and (ii) Phillips Lytle LLP had average hourly rates of $309.00 for partners and $205.00 for associates. Considering that the article is 12 years old, Mr. Reina and the other affiants assert that the hourly rates charged by them are well within reason.

d) Mr. Mackey, a partner at Lipsitz Green, has been practicing law in New York State for 12 years. Prior to practicing in New York State, Mr. Mackey practiced law in Chicago, Illinois for almost six years. Mr. Mackey concentrates his practice in business litigation, construction litigation and employment litigation. Within the realm of business litigation, he has experience working on matters related to taxation of cigarette sales made by Native Americans. In his affidavit, Mr. Mackey states that he spent 154.15 hours providing legal services related to petitioner’s prosecution of this proceeding by, among other things, (i) researching various legal arguments to be presented to the Division of Tax Appeals and the Tax Appeals Tribunal; (ii) communicating with the Division of Tax Appeals; (iii) communicating with petitioner; (iv) communicating with counsel for the Division of Taxation; (v) drafting brief in support of ERW’s petition; (vi) drafting the hearing memorandum; (vii) reviewing the client file and preparing notes for the hearing held in January 2017; (viii) drafting subpoenas for the hearing and having the subpoenas served; (ix) conducting legal research for, and drafting, the post-hearing brief and reply brief submitted on behalf of petitioner; (x) drafting and filing the exception to the administrative law judge’s determination; (xi) conducting legal research for, and drafting, brief and reply brief in support of exception; (xii) reviewing client file and preparing notes for oral argument held in November 2018 before the Tribunal; and (xiii) drafting the application for administrative costs and litigation costs communicating with petitioner; (iv) reviewing pleadings; (v) preparing for and attending a hearing in April 2015 relating to petitioner’s request for a conciliation conference; (vi) reviewing the client file and preparing for the hearing held in January 2017; (vii) attending the hearing held in Rochester, New York on January 11, 2017; (viii) reviewing and revising the post-hearing brief and reply brief submitted on behalf of petitioner; and (ix) reviewing and revising the notice of exception that petitioner filed with the Tribunal and the brief submitted in support thereof. Attached to Mackey’s affidavit as Exhibit B is an itemized list of the legal services he provided petitioner and the time spent (hours or portion thereof) performing the identified tasks, as recorded by him in the firm’s electronic billing system and used to prepare Exhibit B. The detailed reconstructed time records list the legal services provided by Mr. Reina and the amount of time spent on such services on various dates between June 11, 2015 and June 27, 2019. Mr. Mackey avers that his hourly rate is reasonable within the Buffalo, New York area, and is similar to the prevailing rates found in Buffalo for attorneys with his level of experience. He specifically notes that none of the time set forth in Exhibit H is for the legal services he provided to ERW Wholesale in relation to DTA No. 827210.

e) Ms. McCampbell Paris is a Partner at Lipsitz Green and has been practicing law in New York State for over 12 years. Ms. McCampbell Paris concentrates her practice in appellate and complex trial litigation in the areas of criminal law, white-collar crimes and business litigation, and criminal law. In her affidavit, Ms. McCampbell Paris states that she spent 12.75 hours providing legal services related to petitioner’s prosecution of this proceeding by, among other things: (i) conferring with various attorneys representing ERW in this matter; and (ii) reviewing and revising various pleadings. Attached to Ms. McCampbell Paris’s affidavit as Exhibit B is an itemized list of the legal services she provided petitioner and the time spent (hours or portion thereof) performing the identified tasks, as recorded by her in the firm’s electronic billing system and used to prepare Exhibit B. The detailed reconstructed time records list the legal services provided by Ms. McCampbell Paris and the amount of time spent on such services on various dates between July 28, 2015 and June 14, 2018. Ms. McCampbell avers that her hourly rate is reasonable within the Buffalo, New York area, and is similar to the prevailing rates found in Buffalo for attorneys with her level of experience. She specifically notes that none of the time set forth in Exhibit B is for the legal services she provided to ERW Wholesale in relation to DTA No. 827210.

67. Also accompanying petitioner’s application for costs is an affidavit of Eric R. White, dated June 18, 2019, setting forth, in pertinent part, the following information:

“11. In light of the Decision issued by the Tax Appeals Tribunal, it is my understanding that [petitioner] is the prevailing party in this proceeding (DTA #827209) and, thus, [petitioner] is entitled to request an award of reasonable administrative costs and litigation costs.

12. It is also my understanding that to be awarded administrative costs and litigation costs as the prevailing party, [petitioner] must confirm that at the time the petition was filed (September 8, 2015): (i) [petitioner’s] net worth did not exceed $7,000,000.00; and (ii) [petitioner] did not have over 500 employees.

13. I submit that on September 8, 2015, [petitioner’s] net worth did not exceed $7,000,000.00. I further submit that on September 8, 2015, [petitioner] did not have over 500 employees.
14. In light of the above, I submit the [petitioner] is eligible to be awarded reasonable administrative costs and litigation costs as the prevailing party in this proceeding.”

68. Exhibits received in evidence at the hearing held in this matter on January 11, 2017 include the transcript of a Division of Tax Appeals hearing held on August 19, 2014. The subject of that hearing was the timeliness of the protests of Mr. White and Mr. Snyder with respect to notices of determination asserting penalties arising from the same truckload of unstamped cigarettes as forms the basis of the notice giving rise to the present motion. According to that transcript, Mr. Clark testified in that hearing that Mr. Snyder was working for ERW Wholesale when the unstamped cigarettes were seized and that ERW Enterprises was strictly a construction company. Mr. Clark described petitioner’s name on the truck as “more or less advertising.” The transcript also indicates that, during the same hearing, Mr. White testified that petitioner was not involved in the shipment of unstamped cigarettes. Mr. Snyder testified at the August 19, 2014 hearing as well. In response to a question related to the December 3, 2012 incident when the truck was seized, Mr. Snyder stated that “at the time [I] was working for ERW as a driver.” As a follow-up, Mr. Snyder was asked whether he was referring to ERW Wholesale or ERW Enterprises and responded, “[W]ell, I guess it would be Enterprises. I’m not completely certain who I fell under, to be honest.” Although the transcript of the August 19, 2014 hearing was received in evidence at the January 11, 2017 hearing, petitioner did not refer to it in its arguments to the Administrative Law Judge in support of its application for costs. On exception, however, petitioner cited the August 19, 2014 transcript in support of its contention that the Division’s position was not substantially justified.

THE ORDER OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE

The Administrative Law Judge observed that the Tax Law permits a prevailing party in an administrative proceeding in the Division of Tax Appeals an award of reasonable administrative costs incurred in connection with that proceeding. The Administrative Law Judge determined that petitioner was a prevailing party in the present matter, as the notice issued to it was canceled. The Administrative Law Judge also observed, however, that a prevailing party will not be treated as such if the Division establishes that its position is substantially justified.

The Administrative Law Judge found that the Division’s position was substantially justified in the present matter. The Administrative Law Judge noted that the issuance of the December 14, 2014 notice of determination was premised on the Division’s contention that petitioner was in possession or control of unstamped cigarettes on December 3, 2012 when the truck driven by Mr. Snyder was stopped by the New York State Police (see finding of fact 31). The Administrative Law Judge noted that the truck, which did contain unstamped cigarettes, was registered to petitioner and bore its name and DOT registration number on its side (see finding of fact 15). Additionally, the Administrative Law Judge found that Mr. Snyder’s employment status was uncertain at the time the December 14, 2014 notice of determination was issued. He concluded that the facts supportive of petitioner’s position, and upon which the Tribunal’s decision relied, were not developed until after the December 14, 2014 issuance of the notice.

Under these circumstances, the Administrative Law Judge determined that the Division proved that its position was substantially justified and that, accordingly, petitioner was not entitled to be treated as a prevailing party.

Although his determination that the Division’s position was substantially justified resolved the matter, the Administrative Law Judge addressed whether petitioner established that it met the cost award eligibility criteria of having a net worth of less than $7 million and not more than 500 employees. The Administrative Law Judge concluded that petitioner’s proof in support of its net worth, a declaration in the affidavit of petitioner’s owner (see finding of fact 67), was insufficient to meet its burden.

The Administrative Law Judge also found that, although the evidence concerning costs incurred by petitioner was sufficiently detailed, petitioner failed to establish that an award of attorneys’ fees in excess of the statutory rate was warranted.

ARGUMENTS ON EXCEPTION

Petitioner continues to argue that the Division’s position in the present matter was not substantially justified. Petitioner contends that the Division was aware that the truck driver, Mr. Snyder, was employed by ERW Wholesale at the time it issued the December 14, 2014 notice of determination. In support, petitioner refers to the testimony of Mr. Clark and Mr. White at the Division of Tax Appeals hearing held on August 19, 2014 (see finding of fact 68). Petitioner also notes that the bill of lading and invoice pertaining to the unstamped cigarettes, both of which were provided to the State Police on December 3, 2012, indicate that ERW Wholesale was transporting and selling the cigarettes. Petitioner thus contends that, at the time the December 16, 2014 notice of determination was issued, the Division was aware that petitioner was not involved in the sale or transport of the cigarettes. Petitioner thus asserts that the Division’s position was not substantially justified.

On the issue of net worth, petitioner contends that Mr. White’s affidavit was enough for petitioner to meet its burden because the Division offered no evidence to challenge the affidavit. Petitioner asserts that the Administrative Law Judge’s conclusion to the contrary is unsupported by legal authority.

Petitioner also contends that an award for costs in the present matter should be calculated using a $200.00 hourly rate for attorneys’ fees rather than the statutory rate of $75.00. Petitioner asserts that such an increase is justified because the present matter concerned novel and complex tax issues regarding the sale of Native American manufactured cigarettes between Native American businesses.

The Division contends that the Administrative Law Judge correctly determined that its position was substantially justified based on the information that the Division had at the time it issued the notice of determination. The Division also contends that the Administrative Law Judge correctly determined that petitioner failed to demonstrate that it met the net worth and employee eligibility requirements.

Tax Law § 3030 (a) (1) permits an award of reasonable administrative costs to a prevailing party in an administrative proceeding brought by or against the Division where an application is made within thirty days of final judgment (Tax Law § 3030 [c] [5] [A] [ii] [I]). Such costs may include attorneys’ fees incurred in connection with the proceeding (Tax Law § 3030 [c] [2] [B]). As relevant to a proceeding in the Division of Tax Appeals, a prevailing party is a petitioner who has substantially prevailed with respect to the amount in controversy or with respect to the most significant issue or issues presented (Tax Law § 3030 [c] [5] [A] [i]). A prevailing party is not eligible for an award of costs if the Division proves that its position in the matter was substantially justified (Tax Law § 3030 [c] [5] [B]).

As petitioner has clearly prevailed with respect to the amount in controversy here (see finding of fact 63), we address the Division’s claim that it was substantially justified in issuing the notice. Whether the Division’s position was substantially justified is based on “all the facts and circumstances” known or available surrounding the case, not solely the outcome (Matter of March, Tax Appeals Tribunal, November 26, 2018, quoting Phillips v Commr., 851 F2d 1492 (1988)). The Division must show that its position “had a reasonable basis both in fact and law” (Matter of March; Matter of Grillo, citing Powers v Commr., 100 TC 457 [1993]). In analyzing a claim of substantial justification, we consider the Division’s position as of the date it issued the notice of determination giving rise to the proceeding (Tax Law § 3030 [c] [8] [B]).

Here, the relevant date is December 14, 2014. The notice of determination issued on that date asserted penalties against petitioner as a person in possession or control of unstamped cigarettes pursuant to Tax Law § 481 (1) (b) (i) (A). At that time, the Division knew that the truck driven by Mr. Snyder contained unstamped cigarettes when it was stopped by the State Police on December 3, 2012. The specific question to be resolved is thus whether the Division was substantially justified in its position that petitioner was in possession or control of the cigarettes in the truck when it issued the notice of determination.

As of December 14, 2014, the Division knew that the truck was registered to petitioner and had petitioner’s name and DOT number on its side. The Division also knew that petitioner’s sole owner, Mr. White, owned the truck and that Mr. White was the sole owner of ERW Wholesale, which, as the invoice and bill of lading indicate, was attempting to sell the unstamped cigarettes. The Division was also aware of conflicting evidence as to which entity employed the driver, Mr. Snyder. The incident report indicated that Mr. Snyder stated that he worked for petitioner; Mr. Snyder testified at the August 19, 2014 timeliness hearing that he was unsure which business he was working for when the unstamped cigarettes were seized; and Mr. Clark testified at the same hearing that Mr. Snyder was working for ERW Wholesale at that time (see 15 As Tax Law § 3030 is modeled after Internal Revenue Code (IRC) (26 USC) § 7430, it is appropriate to use federal cases for guidance (Matter of Grillo, Tax Appeals Tribunal, August 23, 2012).

16 As used in Tax Law § 481, a person includes a corporation (Tax Law § 470 [3]). findings of fact 17 and 68). The Division was also aware of Mr. Clark’s and Mr. White’s testimony in the timeliness hearing that petitioner was a construction company that was not involved in the shipment of unstamped cigarettes.

Under these facts and circumstances, we think that the Division’s position that petitioner was in possession or control of the unstamped cigarettes had a reasonable basis in fact and law and was therefore substantially justified. Given the truck’s registration in petitioner’s name, along with petitioner’s name and DOT number on its side, it is reasonable to infer that petitioner controlled its use and therefore controlled its contents. The fact that ownership of the truck was in Mr. White’s name is not inconsistent with this conclusion as Mr. White was petitioner’s sole owner. Similarly, the fact that Mr. White’s other business, ERW Wholesale, was the seller and shipper of the unstamped cigarettes, as established by the invoices and bill of lading, is also not inconsistent with this conclusion. We think it reasonable to conclude that Mr. White, the sole owner of the two businesses, might use an ostensible asset of ERW Enterprises, Inc. to facilitate the business of ERW Wholesale.

We agree with the Administrative Law Judge that our May 29, 2019 decision in petitioner’s favor on the question of possession or control of the unstamped cigarettes was based on evidence developed after December 14, 2014. Such evidence thus has no bearing on the question of substantial justification (Tax Law § 3030 [c] [8] [B]). Specifically, the fact that the truck was primarily used in the business of ERW Wholesale and that Mr. Snyder was an employee of ERW was established through the testimony of Mr. Clark at the hearing in Matter of Snyder on October 29 and 30, 2015 and the hearing in the present matter on January 11, 2017 (see findings of fact 15 and 18). 17

17 Official notice is taken of the date of the hearing in Matter of Snyder (see SAPA § 306 [4]; Matter of...
Contrary to petitioner’s contention, the question of which entity (petitioner or ERW Wholesale) employed Mr. Snyder was not resolved by the testimony provided at the Tax Appeals hearing on timeliness held on August 19, 2014, given Mr. Snyder’s own uncertainty on this question (see finding of fact 68).

Additionally, the testimony of Mr. Clark and Mr. White at the timeliness hearing that petitioner and ERW Wholesale were strictly separate businesses does not render the issuance of the December 14, 2014 notice of determination to petitioner unreasonable. The transcript of that hearing provides no other testimony to support these general statements. To the contrary, the fact that the truck advertised petitioner’s business and was registered to petitioner, as well as Mr. Snyder’s uncertainty as to which business he worked for, could be construed as contradicting such claims.

Although our decision on the question of substantial justification resolves the exception, we nonetheless address petitioner’s remaining arguments to provide a complete record.

An applicant for an award of costs must meet a net worth requirement. For a business entity, such as petitioner, the net worth limit is $7 million at the time the petition was filed (Tax Law § 3030 [c] [5] [A] [ii] [II]). A business entity is also restricted to no more than 500 employees to qualify for an award (id.). The applicant has the burden of proof on these points (id.).

We agree with the Administrative Law Judge’s conclusion that petitioner did not meet its burden with respect to its net worth or number of employees as required to be considered a prevailing party. A party seeking an award of costs under Tax Law § 3030 must provide more than a conclusory affidavit to meet the net worth and employee number requirements (see Kolovinas, Tax Appeals Tribunal, December 28, 1990).
Kimmel v State of New York, 115 AD3d 1323 [4th Dept 2014], affd 29 NY3d 386 [2017]

[plaintiff’s affidavit, her accountant’s affidavit and a bankruptcy petition provided sufficient information as to assets and liabilities, and thus net worth in a claim for costs brought under the New York State Equal Access to Justice Act (EAJA) (CPLR article 86)]; see also Broaddus v U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, 380 F3d 162, 169 [4th Cir 2004] [applicant’s net worth may be established by affidavit from applicant’s CPA, provided the affidavit includes documentation of the applicant’s assets and liabilities under the federal EAJA (28 USC § 2412)].

Petitioner’s proof consists solely of Mr. White’s affidavit, which recites the language of the statute (see finding of fact 67). As there is no other evidence in the record of petitioner’s assets and liabilities or the number of its employees, we cannot evaluate the credibility of this claim. Nor, given petitioner’s burden of proof and the Division’s express opposition, can we accept it at face value.

Petitioner contends that Mr. White’s conclusory affidavit is enough proof here because the Division did not offer any evidence to contradict it. In support, petitioner cites United States v Gwilliam (2012 WL 3527893 [United States District Court, D Utah] [2012]), a case involving a claim for costs under IRC (26 USC) § 7430. There, the District Court found that where, as in the instant matter, a taxpayer alleges that it meets the net worth requirement and the government does not make a factually supported claim to the contrary, but only alleges that the taxpayer’s affidavit is insufficient, the taxpayer’s affidavit is sufficient. For the reasons discussed above, and considering the precedent cited above, we respectfully decline to follow Gwilliam.

Petitioner also cites Lippitz v Commr. (TC Memo 2007-293 [2007]), another case involving a costs motion under IRC (26 USC) § 7430. In that case, too, the taxpayer submitted (apparently) bare bones affidavits and the government submitted no evidence to the contrary. As in Gwilliam, the Tax Court in Lippitz determined that the taxpayer satisfied the net worth requirement. Lippitz, however, is distinguishable from both Gwilliam and the present matter because the court in Lippitz expressly found the taxpayer’s affidavits to be credible. We make no such finding here.

As to petitioner’s contention that an award for costs in the present matter should be calculated using a $200.00 hourly rate for attorneys’ fees, Tax Law § 3030 (c) (2) (B) (iii) limits such fees to $75.00 per hour “unless the [Division of Tax Appeals] determines that an increase in the cost of living or a special factor, such as the limited availability of qualified attorneys for such proceeding, justifies a higher rate.” As noted, petitioner contends that a higher rate is justified here because the present matter concerned novel and complex tax issues.

We agree with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner failed to show that an increase to the statutory rate of $75.00 per hour was justified in the present matter. Tax Law § 3030 was enacted in 1997 (see L 1997, ch 577). As noted, it was modeled after IRC (26 USC) § 7430. The language in Tax Law § 3030 (c) (2) (B) (iii) limiting attorney’s fees to the statutory rate unless “a special factor, such as the limited availability of qualified attorneys for such proceeding justifies a higher rate” mirrors the language in IRC (26 USC) § 7430 (c) (1) (B) (iii) as in effect in 1997. In 1998, however, the federal costs provision was amended to include “the difficulty of issues presented in the case” as a special factor (see Pub. L. 105-206, Sec. 3101 [a]). Tax Law § 3030 has not been similarly amended. We note also that the Supreme Court has expressly determined that a similarly-worded provision in the federal EAJA (28 USC § 2412 [d] [2] [A]) did not include difficulty of issues as a special factor in awarding attorneys’ fees at a higher-than-statutory rate (Pierce v Underwood 487 US 552, 573 [1988]). We thus conclude that novelty or complexity of issues is not a special factor justifying a higher rate for attorneys’ fees.
under Tax Law § 3030 (c) (2) (B) (iii) and that no increase to the statutory fee rate would be proper here.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED that:

1. The exception of ERW Enterprises, Inc. is denied;

2. The determination of the Administrative Law Judge is affirmed; and

3. The application of ERW Enterprises, Inc. for an award of costs is denied.
